How Many People Do I Need? Is This Even the Right Question?

Here's a question that we're frequently asked: "How large does my network or team need to be?" It's a good question, so we'll try to answer... It depends...

First, a particular network of support will be different for each person, because of individual needs and preferences. Second, each personal safety net (or network) is made up of three sorts of resources - people, plans and all other sorts of inner and outer resources that are available. A healthy, full life has many parts or "corners": family, healthcare & staying healthy, legal, spiritual, financial, career and so on. Each "corner" then benefits from having various kinds of support, one sort is the people. So, now to get back to these people...

Let's set the stage: Let's say you wake up one morning. Your room seems to be spinning out of control and you can't even stand up.

Your first thought would likely be "who should I call?" (A PEOPLE Question). You actually have a FREE 3-Part Workshop in February EXCITING NEWS! We're starting off the New Year with a FREE Personal Safety Nets workshop for all interested individuals. It's a 3-part series workshop that will take place on three Tuesdays: from 11:30 am to 1:00 pm, February 7th, February 14th and February 28th. Open to the public, with limited space. Call 206-659-0665 or register online today!

Once again we're partnering with our friends at ALKI ARTS to present Personal Safety Nets in a very cozy, relaxed and friendly atmosphere. We're getting out of the office and giving you a chance to come during lunch hour to stretch your mind and "asking muscles" as we suggest ways of replacing fear and isolation with security and connection.

There are three sessions - they build on each other, and we encourage you to come to all three (though you can come to only one or two and will gain from attendance). Remember, this introductory series will be absolutely FREE!

Bring your own lunch, a beverage, or just come as you are. We'll bring the handouts and information and together we'll introduce ideas, build skills and offer some guidance on creative ways to build and maintain strong networks of support and creativity in personal lives, community, and work places.

Isolation: Is it Good for Anything or Anyone?

Editor's note: Has it ever happened to you or someone you know? Something happens to you and it's as though everything becomes "just too much"? You pull inward, you retreat from everything, you hole up in your own little corner? Well, if so, you're normal. And we wondered, is this ever helpful? hurtful? Our friend, Sue Mackey, from The Mackey Group & ArchSkills gave the following thoughtful response. Read on...

"When life happens, with all those unplanned life events and circumstances intruding upon...
To isolate when the going gets tough may not be a problem for any of us if it’s used as a time to think, to shut out the clutter and noise of our surroundings. This allows us time to assess and process what has happened and why (if there is an answer to why). However, getting stuck in isolation allows isolation to become a permanent state of being. When we do nothing more than wish and hope our isolation will go away, we lose control, making the isolation more than a temporary state of being. We lose control of our isolation and how long it lasts. Getting stuck in this emotional withdrawal also greatly impairs our ability to think and process information reasonably and logically.

Remember, each of us is unique. What works best for one may not work for others. Now is the time to think about needs prior to an event, and communicate them to our trusted confidant(s) - part of our Personal Safety Net."
mind in planning for changes and challenges.

So, again, how big should your team be? The dream of one ideal size is impossible to attain. Why? Because it's not about numbers - it's about resources! It's about the total package of what you put into place to help you cope, succeed and conquer. What works for you is not always what works for your neighbor. What you need is not exactly what your neighbor needs. What you have and can do is not what your neighbor has and can do.

It's not numbers you want to focus upon but very simply: Do I have all the right RESOURCES in place for me? WHICH SHOULD INCLUDE AT LEAST A BASE OF THREE PEOPLE WITH THE INFORMATION AND LEGAL AUTHORITY NEEDED.

February will find us conducting seminars at South Seattle Community College's Transition Day, as well as with the staff at Antioch University.

March you can find us speaking at the Foss Home & Village Development Brunch, working with the AmeriCorps Team at King County Housing Authority, and with the very talented counselors who will attend the Aging Your Way Conference.

Now is the perfect time for you to pick up the phone (206-659-0665) or email and schedule a time for the staff of Personal Safety Nets® to come and work with your group or organization. Personal Safety Nets® is moving towards its goal of putting 5,000 copies of our book into prepared hands to remind people of how teamwork can help! From now until June 2012, most seminars are FREE, and we include a free book for every participant.
